

Marianna Pula

· PHOTOGRAPHER ·

Hello!

My name is Marianna and I live in Castiglione del Lago, in Umbria. I have spent most of my life here, in the so-called 'green heart of Italy', surrounded by nature, which has clearly influenced my work.

If I had to choose three things to describe myself, I would pick a book, a stem of thyme and a camera. First of all, I would choose a book because of my passion for reading, graphic design and printed paper. Then I would choose thyme because I love anything green that smells like nature and because of my passion for cooking and enjoying good food. Last, but not least I would choose a camera to capture every beautiful moment and emotion. For as long as I can remember, I've always had a camera in my hands to seize every instant of my life.

I love to tell stories: I am moved when I see couples hugging or simply looking at each other and I'm left speechless when I see a baby smiling. I always try to convey my emotions through my photos, and I put myself in everything I do. There's a little part of me in every picture that you will see, it could be in the perspective, in the colors or in the light that has been chosen.

My approach

When I am working at a wedding, I always make sure to be as silent and discreet as possible in order not to disturb. I will follow you with a reporter approach and document every single important moment: from the initial preparation to the first dance together, I will be there to capture your happiness. Through my photos you will be able to remember and relive every single moment that made your wedding day so special and unique.

The best way for me to tell your love story, is to spend some time alone with you: we will leave the crowd of guests to take more intimate pictures. I will guide you through every single step, asking you to touch each other, to whisper to each other, to cuddle and to kiss.
